

Aartri Zaveri

“Unveiling myself, I express”

Aartri Zaveri is a multi-disciplinary artist . Her diversified works of art often derive from the study of change in the topography as a result of rapid growth and modernization and reflect the impact of urbanization on our ecology. Overtime her artwork has been increasingly reflective and representation of what she perceives and feels while exploring various places, situations and meeting different people. The role of basic elements of Life and human interaction with them have given her the strength to portray the obvious but with renewed aesthetic sensibilities. Her works have been instrumental in germinating a conceptual process in her way of thinking and practice of her artistic oeuvre.

Her work ranges across various media and disciplines encompassing diverse art practices which include Paintings, Site specific works and Installations across different parts of the World, Films, Photography and Artist Talks.

She is recognised for her art installations that create immersive empirical experiences which makes the audience to reflect with a new insight. Her projects intend to involve the society at large through installations in public spaces, public art lessons and discussions, bringing to attention the concerns about environmental degradation, sustainability, and global warming.

Winner of Seychelles Biennale 2017, Aartri is associated with “Global Nomadic Art Project” in collaboration with YATOO; a Korean art organization. She is also an active member of the Artist in Nature International Network (AININ). She recently completed a Senior Fellowship Research Project from Government of India.
